

THE CUCKOO CLUB

GENERAL INFORMATION

The Cuckoo Club is a new members club and 50-cover restaurant on the site of the former Stork Rooms in Swallow Street, London, W1. It features 5,000 square feet of glamorous interior design spread over two floors, with a capacity of 300.

The Cuckoo Club's LED display ceiling replete with ostensibly incongruous antique chandeliers is an appropriate motif for the venue's design and entertainment policy of fusing modern technological advancements with glamour from decades past.

The Cuckoo Club's head chef Andy Glover was previously at the award-winning Bach (New Zealand) and his menu is predominantly Modern European, changing seasonally and containing ingredients sourced from local producers in order to maintain quality and authenticity. The ground floor restaurant promotes a relaxed and intimate vibe and combines this with contemporary, elegant design.

Open Wednesday to Saturday, the club houses an ample dance floor surrounded by fine tables and luxurious banquet seating.
